Organization of the citizens' association was furthered by appointment of a committee of 25, representing the entire county

R E Huff was named chairman of the meeting and he and Judge J T Montgomery briefly explained the purpose of the meeting and the origin of the movement that resulted in its being called The organization plan was submitted by Mayor Cline on behalf of the committee of five who also submitted the original resolutions

Mr Cline explained that the resolution asking for an inquiry into reported practices of some attorneys would give attorneys who do not approve of such conduct an opportunity to help correct the situation The resolution commending the work of the grand jury was presented by W S Cowling from the floor

Oil Man Speaks

W B Corlett well known oil company official took the floor just as a vote was about to be taken on the organization plan

"I've been waiting for some regular speaker to discuss this," he said "I want to say that one reason why many good citizens don't take a more active part in helping enforce the laws is that they have no protection from the attacks and insults of irresponsible lawyers who try to drag their characters in the mud"

An emphatic outburst of applause from the crowd left no doubt as to its stand on Mr Corlett's remarks B F Johnson representative from this district also received hearty applause when he criticised those who have made attacks on the grand jury

"The legal profession has its black sheep just like the oil business has," declared Judge J. T Montgomery speaking in reply to Mr Corlett. Judge Montgomery explained that he handled only civil business, but that the rights of ac-

RESIGNATION OF OKMULGEE JUDGE IS NOT ACCEPTED

OKMULGEE OKLA Feb 27—Interest in the situation growing out of the recent dismissal of a grand jury investigating the affairs of the defunct Bank of Commerce here by Superior Court Judge H R Christopher, took a sudden spurt today with the making public of a letter from Governor J B A Robertson sent yesterday to the judge declining to accept the latter s resignation No word had been received from the judge, who is believed to be in Chicago Judge Christopher offered his resignation after being requested to do so by citizens at a mass meeting soon after the dismissal of the grand jury

In his letter Governor Robertson upheld the judge in dismissing the grand jury saying that to have let it render a report would have made more difficult a quick settlement of the bank s affairs Judge Christopher said when he discharged the grand jury that he did so because it had been 'hand picked and not chosen according to law The governor also said in his letter that should the courts approve such a procedure in the empaneling of a grand jury it would be an open door to persecution

A designing judge might easily protect his guilty friends, he said

The governor however criticized Judge Christopher for his offering to recall the discharged grand jury and let it make its report

'Justice must not be thwarted at the demands of any people or to escape the threats of any mob Governor Robertson said

In a statement the governor said he was willing to appear before a grand jury and testify 'waiving all privileges and immunity'

Another grand jury was scheduled to be empaneled today in Judge Mark L Bozarth s court to take up the matters investigated by the dismissed grand jury

GRAND JURY HAS BEEN EMPANELLED IN OKMULGEE CASE

OKMULGEE OKLA, Feb 27—A grand jury of 12 men was empanneled today by Judge Mark L Bozarth in district court here today to take up the work of investigating the failure of the Bank of Commerce here last November which was halted on February 9 when Superior Court Judge H R Christopher dismissed a grand jury called primarily for that purpose

In his instructions Judge Bozarth directed the grand jury to investigate alleged violations of the banking laws of the state in Okmulgee county to inquire into the 'willful and corrupt misconduct in office of public officers of every description in this county to investigate alleged election law violations as to conduct of elections and illegal registrations and to shield the citizens alike from false accusation of private malice and the passion of public clamor

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE LEGAL IS DECISION OF SUPREME COURT

CASE ON APPEAL IS DISMISSED FOR WANT OF JURISDICTION.

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF AMENDMENT ATTACKED

Test Case Was That of Oscar Lesser, et al., Carried Up From Maryland.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. — The woman's suffrage, or nineteenth amendment, was today declared constitutional by the supreme court.

The court dismissed for want of jurisdiction the suit brought by Charles S. Fairchild of New York, who sought to challenge the constitutionality of the amendment.

The decision of the court on the suffrage amendment was delivered in the case of Oscar Leser and others brought from the state of Maryland The proceedings brought by Fairchild were dismissed on the specific ground that he had no standing to bring such a proceeding and did not presenta case within the jurisdiction of the court.

The women suffrage or 19th amendment to the constitution was challenged in the supreme court in proceedings instituted by Charles S Fairchild of New York for himself and in behalf of the American constitutional league to anjoin the secretary of state from issuing and the attorney general from enforcing a proclamation declaring the ratification of the amendment and by Oscar Leser and other citizens of Maryland constituting an organization known as the Maryland League for State Defense The former proceedings were based on the ground that the amendment had not been validly adopted and the latter that the amendment was unconstitutional

The federal courts in the District of Columbia and the state courts in Maryland, where the cases respectively, were originally brought ruled against the objections to the amendment In the oral arguments in the supreme court in the Fairchild case the government contended that the secretary of state having issued the ratification proclamation there was nothing to restrain and that the case therefore became moot not presenting a controversy for judicial decision In the Leser case the government acknowledged that the proceedings had been instituted by voters who had sufficient interest to warrant their presence in court but that the issue raised was political one for decision by congress or for settlement in some other avenue than by adjudication in the courts While the state of Maryland had refused to ratify the amendment, it was pointed out the state also refused to question its constitutionality

Assail Power of Congress.

The power of congress to propose the amendment to the state legislatures for ratification was assailed by its opponents on the ground that the people reserved to themselves in their state constitutions the right to regulate suffrage, and that the federal government legally could not have anything whatever to do with changing the "sovereign power" embodied in suffrage qualifications

"The people were not setting up an amending agency for their own destruction' the opponents contended, asserting that in limiting federal jurisdiction the "sovereign people" did not intend that their agents conducting the federal government should have the power to destroy them Following this line of argument it was argued that the people alone by amendments to their state constitutions or by a constitutional convention called for the purpose could extend or abridge their sovereignty

The fifteenth or race suffrage amendment, adopted after the war between the states was not a precedent it was asserted, by the opponents because it was an expression of the "results of revolution" acquiesced in by all the people for the "reconstruction" of the nation by extending to the negro race freedom and equality," for which the

PASSENGER FARES IN STATES ARE SUBJECT TO U. S. REGULATION

WASHINGTON, Feb 27—Railroad passenger fares within a state are subject to regulation by the federal government the supreme court today declared

The court sustained the lower court s decision which prohibited the Wisconsin railroad commission from interfering with the Chicago Burlington and Quincy railroad in putting into effect increases in passenger fares in state travel authorized by the interstate commerce commission

Constitutionality of federal railway rate making powers asserted in the transportation act was brought under concerted attack when the Wisconsin rate case was carried to the supreme court for settlement

Many States Involved.

While Wisconsin and the Chicago Burlington and Quincy railroad alone were parties to the action more than two score states joined with Wisconsin in challenging what the interstate commerce commission has held is a cornerstone of the act with the government and all railroads doing interstate business arrayed in interest on the other side

Specifically Wisconsin denied the authority of the interstate commerce commission under the act to supervise rate making in Wisconsin In its wider significance, however the action promised to settle the issue as to whether increased interstate rates granted by the federal body to carry out the 'fair return' guaranty to the roads in the act should be a controlling factor in the making of rates within any state

The Wisconsin railway commission carried to the highest court its appeal from an injunction restraining it from enforcing the state s two-cent law Increased freight and passenger rates ordered by the interstate commerce commission as necessary to assure the railroad earning the fair return' were in violation of the Wisconsin law, the state commission contended and their imposition over the opposition of state authorities an invasion of state rights

The transportation act so far as it was construed by the interstate commerce commission as giving it power to supervise strictly state commerce was declared to be unconstitutional but counsel contended that no such authority was included in the act nor was it intended by congress

The Burlington replied that the interstate commerce commission held indisputable power to prevent a state from taking advantage of sister states which have acted liberally in the public interest" Increased rates were necessary to ensure adequate railroad facilities, it declared and the authority of the federal agencies to act even in intrastate commerce had previously been upheld by the supreme court in the Shreveport case

When the case was called for argument March 11 1920 Chief Justice White recognized its importance by allowing nine hours for its presentation The solicitor general the interstate commerce commission any many of the states availed themselves of the opportunity to submit written briefs as well

The court in another decision handed down today held that railroad rates fares and charges within the state of New York are subject to regulation by the interstate commerce commission

The court in the New York case affirmed the decision of the United States district court of the northern district of that state requiring the state to comply with orders of the interstate commerce commission increasing passenger fares and charges and the rates on cream and milk

SOVIET TO GRANT ANY DEMANDS FOR SUBSTANTIAL LOAN

BASIC REASON FOR THIS ATTITUDE SAID TO BE THE FAMINE.

SITUATION THREATENS THE CITY OF MOSCOW

Frightened Attitude Is Shown In Sentiment Toward American Relief.

By Associated Press

MOSCOW Feb 27—The soviet delegation to Genoa will carry instructions to grant all concessions demanded provided a big reconstruction loan can be obtained. If this loan cannot be arranged then from the Russian point of view, the conference has only the moral value of recognition of the present government

The basic reason for this attitude is the famine So long as the famine starves to death the peasants and the remaining burgeoisie though it be on a scale of millions, the soviet leaders are untouched and rather indifferent

But the famine is now slowly but surely encroaching on Moscow and soviet representatives sent to every part of Russia for food, report there is less and less to be had, that beginning with March the favored red army will begin to starve, and that each succeeding month will be worse until July, when harvests, more or less scant, may relieve the situation

What may happen between now and summer months is troubling the soviet leaders If a big loan is not arranged the hundred million or so dollars in the soviet treasury will have to go for food, and even that may not save the country from anarchy

The frightened attitude of the soviet is shown by its daily changing attitude towards the American relief administration

If the Moscow leaders do not obtain help they realize that their power is doomed Already the Ukraine has flatly refused to let any of its food be drained off to Moscow or for the red army stationed elsewhere

The Caucasus has some food, but its attitude is doubtful In the Kuban where there also is food hostility to outside shipments has been active since last summer

The soviet government s fears are indicated in another direction For the time its entire Oriental policy has been thrown overboard The recent conference of far eastern peoples called by the third internationale for the purpose of stimulating communism in Japan, China and elsewhere was given but the scantiest attention in Moscow The delegates were poorly housed and turned over to foreign office clerks.

DECLARES YOUTH MUST BE TAUGHT LAW OBSERVANCE

Dr. T. S. Pittenger of the First M. E. church Sunday evening brought a forceful message to his hearers upon the subject of "He shall implant his law upon the minds and hearts of His people," declaring that it is with the boys and girls, in the period of their innocence, that parents must start the period of training that will enable them to become law abiding citizens and God fearing people.

The scripture for the evening was taken from the 19th Psalm and the text from the book of Hebrews. The pastor declared that he had been watching some boys at play upon the church lawn, and that then they had gone over to the court house yard, that no one cared for these boys, seemingly, yet these were the citizens of tomorrow and were the ones that would have to answer for crimes that had been committed, because they had not been taught to do right, or would be the men that would stand for law enforcement," he said.

"Nobody seems to care for some boys, yet Christ came into the world and gave His life to save them and make them strong men and God fearing men.

"We had a great mass meeting this afternoon and a committee of 25 was formed to help with the enforcement of law and the suppression of crime, and that is fine thing, but back of all this there must be the law written into the minds and hearts of the boys and girls. There is no redeeming force to correct law breaking unless the basic laws of God are imprinted upon the mind of the child. When the destructive idea is written upon the mind of the boy it will make a criminal out of him unless something stronger is implanted to crowd out the evil idea. There is a difference between the boy that has had the law of God written into his heart when a child and the one that has had nothing written upon his mind and into his heart, yet many boys are growing up without anyone's taking enough interest in them to teach them the right from the wrong way.

"There are many boys not over 10 years old now that know more, that they ought not to know, than their fathers knew at 30, and why? Because someone has taken the trouble to tell them that which they ought not to know and no one else has taken the pains to tell them the things that ought to be told to them. I is the business of the parent, the teacher and our own business to see that the proper impression is given the youth. We have had 100 boys using our gymnasium all winter and I have been here every night looking after them because I figure a preacher can do no bigger business than to help the boys of his community.

"God has said that he will write His statutes into our hearts. He sent Christ into the world in order that he might grip our hearts and cause us to love to do the thing that is holy and true. The thing that is worth while is gripping the boys so they can be taught to let alone the things that are not right and to get hold of those things that will make strong men and clean men out of them, and men that are not afraid to stand for the upholding of righteousness. Livingston's purpose to do the will of God was so written upon his mind that he was willing to do what God wanted him to do and go where God wanted him to go, and was so great that Stanley was led to follow him. Christ was sent into the world to implant the love of God, His service and His l... into our minds and hearts so that we shall be fullfledged men and women, and shall have the impulse and desire to write these same things into the minds and hearts of the boys and girls in our community today. May God help us to do no less than this."

Friedmans Have Family Reunion; Attended by 225

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Descendants of Pinkus Friedman, who lived in Poland in 1790, left New York today for their respective homes after gathering here for their annual dinner. Some of them must travel half way around the world before arriving at their destination. The Friedmans 225 of them, had to hire a big hall for the festivities.

The Friedman family circle was organized in 1909. Each year members of the family meet at dinner. For this occasion Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Friedman traveled from Melbourne, Australia; Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Friedman and their daughter from Honolulu; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Friedman from San Francisco, and Harry Friedman from Cleveland.

Four generations were at the dinner, the oldest, Pinkus Friedman, being 82. Lawyers, bankers, doctors and men engaged in almost every line of business are represented in the family.

CORONET OF PRINCESS DESCRIBED BY WRITER

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Many persons have been inquiring about Princess Mary's coat of arms for the details are wanted for many purposes in relation to her wedding. Some have been asked for particulars of her crest, quite ignorant of the fact that she has none, and as a princess, never will have one, says an authority on heraldry writing in the Daily Mail.

The royal arms are not hereditary In the form in which they are generally seen, they belong exclusively to the king. Every other member of the royal family has, or should have, a separate warrant under the king's sign manual assigning to them a "differenced" version of the arms.

There is no particular date or occasion on which these warrants are issued and some times they are entirely overlooked, as happened in the case of the late Duchess of Teck

But sooner or later something occurs which creates the necessity for arms. This happened at any rate when a prince is made a Knight of the Garter, and his arms are needed for his stall plate and banner in St. George's chapel.

All princesses have their arms on a "lozenge" instead of a shield Princess Mary's coronet, as the daughter of the king, is a golden circlet composed of crosses pateu and fleurs de lys alternately, exactly like the circlet of the royal crown, but without the arches. That coronet is placed above the lozenge, and on the head of the lion supporter and around the neck of the unicorn supporter.

WOMAN'S CLOTHING TO VALUE OF $2,000 TAKEN FROM STORE

COLONNA TOGGERY IS SCENE OF WHOLESALE ROBBERY SATURDAY NIGHT.

SECOND CASE OF KIND WITHIN RECENT WEEKS

Store Is Looted in Systematic Manner—Entrance Effected Through Rear.

Working methodically and apparently knowing perfectly well what they wanted and where it could be found, thieves Saturday night looted the Colonna Toggery shop, 707 Indiana avenue, of wearing apparel valued at approximately $2,000. The theft was the second large one reported to police by local merchants within a month.

According to City Detective Jack Miller, the robbers gained entrance to the Colonna store by tearing away the roof of a small building located on an alley at the rear of the building and then forcing open a door giving access to the main rooms.

From the appearance of things Sunday, when the robbery was discovered, the thieves took their time in going through the stock. Boxes and crates had been opened, expensive gowns and dresses removed and the lids replaced. Nothing was out of order in the store and every indication pointed to a systematic looting that had been carefully planned.

The larger part of the stolen goods consisted of silk gowns and other articles of women's wear. Officials of the store were making an appraisement of the loss Monday and estimated the value of the robbers' loot at $2,000 or possibly more.

ONLY FIFTEEN DAYS IN WHICH TO FILE YOUR TAX RETURNS

Taxpayers have 15 days, not including Sundays, in which to file their income tax returns for the calendar year 1921. To avoid penalty, the return, accompanied by at least one-quarter of the tax, must be in the hands of the collector of internal revenue or a deputy collector on or before midnight of March 15.

Returns may be mailed or filed in person at the office of the collector, Dallas, Texas, and the following branch offices: Fort Worth, Tyler, Abilene and Wichita Falls, Texas. Payment may be made by check, money order or in cash. If made at a branch office, payment should be by money order or check, to avoid danger of loss in transmission to the office of the collector.

Where in exceptional cases such as illness or absence, a taxpayer is unable to make a return within the time prescribed, an extension of not to exceed 30 days may be obtained upon application to the collector. Such extensions will be granted only when in the judgment of the collector, further time is actually required for the making of an accurate return. Application for such extension must be made prior to March 15.

The absence or illness of one or more officers of a corporation will not be accepted as a reasonable cause for failure to file the return within the prescribed time, unless it is satisfactoryily shown that there were no other principal officers available and sufficiently informed as to the affairs of the corporation to make and verify the return.

As a condition of granting an extension of time for filing a return, the collector may require the submission of a tentative return. Tentative returns will not be accepted unless permission is obtained previous to filing. A copy of the authority for filing the tentative return must be attached thereto when filed. When a taxpayer files a tentative return and fails to file a complete return within the period of extension requested by him, the complete return when filed is subject to penalties prescribed for delinquency.

If before the end of a 30-day extension granted by the collector, an accurate return cannot be made, an appeal for a further extension must be made to the commissioner of Internal revenue, Washington, D. C., with a full recital of the causes for delay. The commissioner will not grant an additional extension without a clear showing that a complete return cannot be made at the end of the 30-day period. For failure to file a return on time, the taxpayer becomes liable to a penalty of not more than $1,000 and a further penalty of 25 per cent of the amount of tax due, unless he later files a return and it is satisfactorily shown that the delinquency was due to a reasonable cause and not to wilful neglect.

JOSEPH DRAKE

"When I say that I weigh 25 pounds more than I did a short time ago it speaks volumes for the merit of Tanlac," said Joseph B. Drake, 430 Belmont Ave., Springfield, Mass.

"The first thing Tanlac did for me was to give me an appetite and tone up my stomach. It wasn't long before I was eating things I hadn't dared touch for years and anyone to see the hearty way I eat now would find it hard to believe that a few weeks ago I was dyspeptic and living on the highest kind of diet.

"Another good thing Tanlac did for me was to drive the rheumatism almost entirely out of my system. In fact, I can truthfully say it has made me feel like a new man in every way. It certainly is a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug store, in Electra by Tarletin Drug company, in Burkburnett by West End Drug company and by all leading druggists. —Adv.

THE MERRY JOURNEYS OF MARY JANE

Mary Jane and The Seven Little Kittens

Mary Jane said: "They were the cutest little kittens you ever saw."

ONE day, Mary Jane was out in the barn, and all of a sudden she saw Maria Mitsubshi, their gray cat, moving into her summer home up in the hay mow, with seven little Mitsubshis after her.

They were the cutest little kittens you ever saw. Mary Jane said how perfectly lovely they were, and how was their father? And Maria said that one of the neighbors had broken a bottle of catsup over Mr. Tom's head for singing after 12 o'clock at night, and he was in the hospital yet, but expected to be out soon. Mary Jane said she hoped that he'd reform and settle down, now that he had a family to look after.

But Maria said she didn't want to build up too much hope on this. Then Mary Jane ran up to the house and brought back a big saucer of milk for Maria and the babies, and a slice of bread spread with Mary Jane Syrup for herself.

And they sat there on the floor and ate their lunch. And Maria told Mary Jane that if Tommy Tippetoe, the mouse, didn't behave himself and stop coming around, making trouble in her family she'd have to tell his mother on him.

Then Mary Jane went home, and told her mother all about Maria's family. And her mother said "We'll keep the two gray ones. The others will have to get an education, and earn their own canned salmon." Mary Jane thought this was all that could be expected.

BLAME THE UNREST IN INDIA ON THOSE WHO VISIT THE U. S.

LONDON, Feb 26.—The conditions of unrest in India are described as serious by correspondents of the London Times They pay particular attention to growing hostilities of sikhas. University President Discusses U. S Immigration Problem.

CHICAGO Feb 27—America must first stop the flood of illiterate and inferior intelligence from Europe and admit only the foreigners who can strengthen our stock and ideals Dr Frank P Graves president of the University of New York state commissioner of education said today before the department of superintendence national educational association

"Next" he continued "we must find some way to supply which are withdrawals from school It is intolerable that 30 per cent of our young people should drop out before they are 14 years old and 70 per cent before they have completed the eighth grade Our compulsory attendance laws must be greatly strengthened in most states

"In my judgment it would also be well for the school authorities to study the situation through visiting teachers and experts and see how far the work of the school itself is to blame for the elimination

"But much more serious is the situation caused by our failure hitherto to select and properly educate the gifted among our young people who have dropped out of school early and gone to work

"The opportunities furnished for them at present in the evening courses are quite inadequate to any sort of adult education must be provided And this must be done

SUFFRAGE LAW IS UPHELD BY COURT

...r was fought" Any other method ...r permanently registering the inevitable decree of the civil war ...ld have been equally effective, ...argued

...ill it be held notwithstanding these objections that ...ngress ...constitutional powers to submit the amendment for ratification ...state legislatures the prescribed ...three fourths of the legislatures required for constitutional ratification did not give their approval ...the opponents of men's suffrage insisted naming Missouri, Tennessee and West Virginia counted among the 36 states necessary for ratification as not having legally acted

Charge Issues Political.

Declaring the issues presented are political "seeking to obtain from the court an opinion or construction" on the contentions raised the government asserted that the supreme court consistently had refused to deliver an interpretation of the law because it was beyond its power It took this position when requested for an "opinion by George Washington and has on repeated occasions adhered to it

Whether the government of a state was republican in its nature and whether a proposed constitutional amendment had received the approval of the necessary number of state legislatures or not the friends of the amendment insisted judicial questions Replying however, to the assertion that the amendment had not been legally ratified the government asserted that Missouri, Tennessee and West Virginia has been properly counted but that if Missouri was excluded it being the only one in the view of the government open to question under any reasonable contention—it was offset by Vermont and Connecticut which had ratified after the proclamation had been issued

The greatest power in the constitution was that of amendment Solicitor General Beck asserted in the document It conferred upon the people he said the right to change the form of government whenever they pleased The 15th amendment under his construction merely added the words sex to the provisions of the 15th amendment that there should be no discrimination on account of race color or previous servitude "It would be political revolution" he declared for the court after equal suffrage had been in existence for half a century to set it aside

The election of senators by the direct vote of the people was issue in the validity of the amendment against the contention that it deprives the states of equal representation in the senate the government declared insisting that if the people by a direct vote should elect their representatives in the senate there is no reason why they should not provide who shall exercise the right of suffrage in such election

MOTION IN ACUFF CASE PASSED OVER FOR SEVERAL DAYS

BRIEFS ARE SUBMITTED BY STATE AND DEFENDANT ON LAW IN CASE.

DEFENDANT ALLEGES 300 MEMBERS IN KLAN

Contends He Has Right to File Motion to Quash Given Under Constitution.

Arguments in the B W Acuff motion to quash the indictment were not heard Monday by Judge Ed Napier and Judge P A Martin The hearing was passed over for the time until several criminal cases in which announcements of ready were received are tried It is possible that it will be heard the latter part of the week.

Both the state and the defendant have filed their briefs citing the law and decision which they contend are applicable in the case The defendant's brief is a lengthy one containing over 40 paragraphs

The defendant alleges in his brief that there are at least 300 members of the Ku Klux Klan in Wichita county and that the grand jury commission selected grand jurors from this number when in fact there were from five to six thousand qualified grand jurors in the county

Another paragraph in the brief contends that the grand jury commission corruptly declined and refused to select the members of the grand jury from the citizenship of different portions of the county, but instead selected members of the K K K for this service

The state relies to have the motion dismissed on the ground that the defendant is not showing any injury and that his motion to quash is nothing more than a challenge to the array of the grand jury. It contends that the time for the filing of motion has passed, alleging that it should have been done before the grand jury was impanelled and stating that the defendant was at that time under arrest and in fact a prisoner in the county jail and that he was well aware of the fact that the grand jury was being impanelled and that his case would be under investigation

The defendant contends that under article 14 of the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States that he has a right at any time to declare his rights to a fair and impartial trial and to a fair and impartial investigation of the offense with which he stands charged

He cites in the brief a case in which the defendant attacked the indictment returned against him by a motion to quash and to dismiss the prosecution after the parties had announced ready for trial alleging that his constitutional rights had been violated He asserts and cites the case, that the lower courts overruled his motion but that the higher courts reversed the decision cused men and of attorneys representing them must be recognized.

Other Speakers Heard

C I Francis, attorney, declared that the remedy lay with the district judge and the district attorney who, he said, "must be men of nerve and brains and understanding of their business"

Further criticism of the legal profession cam from B F Johnson, who asserted that an accused man with money could hire attorneys to block and delay and clutter up with technicalities the efforts to punish him.

P. B Cox, attorney, replying to Mr Johnson, sought to place the responsibility on the public. That portion of the public that attended the meeting manifested its resentment of his remarks by crying "sit down," "shut up" although there were some shouts of "tell it to 'em" as well

Mr Cox held the floor and declared the public was to blame for two reasons, first, for keeping salaries so low that the right sort of men could not hold office, and second, for laxness and indifference in jury service.

The meeting then proceeded to perfect its organization.

After apologizing to the Canadian public, particularly the women the Doukhobour chieftain explains that the children of the colony are on the verge of starvation being deprived of milk through the forced sale of cows in 1920 for the payment of taxes

MEMBER OF U. S. RELIEF WORK IN MOSCOW IS SHOT

By Associated Press

MOSCOW, Feb 27—J B Murray of Woburn Mass connected with the American relief administration suffered a slight flesh wound when fired upon in the street early yesterday He was accompanied by a Mr Callahan of Fall River Mass

Whether the shot was fired by a highwayman or by street patrols who misinterpreted the actions of the Americans, has not been determined

Murray and Callahan were driving home when they saw a sleigh ahead of them, halted the occupants with their hands in the air

Thinking it was a holdup the Americans jumped from their sleigh and ran Several shots were fired at them one hitting Murray, who however was able to continue running and reach a nearby house

Neither one understands Russian but they succeeded in making the patrols who quickly arrived understand that they were Americans and were assisted home

American relief administration employes familiar with Moscow are inclined to the theory that street patrols had halted the sleigh ahead of the Americans and fired on the Americans to stop them for investigation

DR DOUGLAS RETURNS FROM INSPECTION OF PARIS, TEXAS, PLANT.

BELIEVES WOULD CORRECT SOME UNSAFE PRACTICES

Plant Visited Found to Be Operating on Self-Supporting Basis

Plans designed to ultimately furnish the city with a municipal abattoir will be launched here soon according to Dr W H Douglas head of the city health department who returned Sunday from an inspection of the Paris Texas municipal plant

Just what the nature of the work will be is largely problematical Dr Douglas said Monday but a change must be made in the methods now prevailing of slaughtering and marketing fresh meat in the city—and a public abattoir maintained under the direction of city officials is the logical solution

Under existing laws no fresh meat is supposed to be sold in Wichita Falls without first having been inspected by health department officials The system however under which the health department exists allows up on every butcher and last year hundreds of dollars worth of fresh meat was sold without ever having passed any sort of inspection

One of the favorite practices according to Dr Douglas was for meat peddlers of shady character to go to a farm near the city, cut out a beef from the herd kill it in the pasture and the next day sell a few cuts of the meat One large ranch owner in Wichita county is known to have lost over 30 head of cattle by this practice

Under a municipal abattoir system the public could be warned to refrain from buying any meat from hucksters that did not bear an official health department stamp Any one caught attempting to sell such meat would be liable to prosecution

At the city slaughter house a farmer could have his stock killed and prepared for sale inspected and stored for any length of time he wished—all for a nominal sum while the public would be protected in that all meat designed for public sale would first have to pass inspection by a competent official

The Paris plant has worked out an excellent official system Dr Douglas states one that makes it not only self supporting but that yields a small profit besides This recommends it to the city while the advantages of modern killing facilities at nominal cost gives an appeal to the stock raiser

A plan whereby private abattoirs now in the city may be made available for public use may be worked out Dr Douglas believes and it is also his intention to take the matter up with the county agricultural agent so that a demand for such an institution will be created among the farmers of the district

Such work while being a decided improvement over all methods or rather lack of methods would still be crude and inefficient when compared to the municipal abattoir system and Dr Douglas is determined that such a plant be installed here

The WRONG FACE

By ISABEL OSTRANDER

CHAPTER I

Well Frank you're back safe and safe The young woman in mourning held out her hand to the chauffeur My aunt wrote you were a prisoner in Germany

It's time to see you Mrs Fay returned the chauffeur They turned us loose after the armistice He's well I—I like to say miss that you look terribly—the report I saw—when the news came out poor Mr Tudor

I shut the door and climbing behind the wheel drove down the silent street I felt a little embarrassed by the reference to her brother but she asked back the tears determinedly

Soon Fay was one of the most exclusive of summer colonies with lands at its superb estates which had once been of a million with a sense of idlerment Everything seemed just the same just as she remembered it but yet there appeared to be a subtle intangible difference Could it be merely her nervous imagination or was it overtaxed nerves which had driven her from reconstructive work in France

She leaned forward impulsively "My aunt and cousin they are both well I trust"

"Yes Miss Fay"

Fay sat back once more Dear Aunt Clara Her uncle's widow was as close to her as her own blood and Laurel her cousin had been like a little dark eyed vicious sister

The car swung up the driveway and halted before the steps of the white porch upon which a slender, white-clad figure stood

Fay had only time to note that the piquant face seemed as childishly naive as ever before her cousin folded her in a tense embrace

Oh Fay! Fay! I thought that transport never would get in

Laurel dear Fay kissed her warmly and mounted the steps to meet the gracious figure advancing toward her

Mrs Taylor was thirty seven and looked twenty five with the delicate tender irregularity of feature which just escaps actual beauty Every thing about her was pretty her bluish hair and soft blue eyes and the rose leaf skin which was innocent of the slightest line Her soft girlishly slender figure moved with a slow rhythmic grace

Later during the meal Fay studied her aunt and cousin covertly

It seemed to her was a strained note in Laurel's vivacity which betrayed a nervous tension

She was puzzling over it when the girl remarked

You hasn't asked about any of the old crowd Fay Now that the men are back it is like the old Sandy Cove again

Mr Clayton and others are staying at the Country club

Mr Clayton? Fay glanced up quickly

Yes One of the dollar a year men in Washington

He has been magnificently generous Fay's eyes glowed I shall be glad to see him again

Mrs Tudor glanced across the table at her niece and smiled

He's quite the same as ever she said Plays abominable bridge and talks shop

Oh mother only abuses him because he is as insane about her as ever!" Laurel laughed but there was a nervous little quiver in her voice as she hurried on Jack Huntington is at the club—and Harry Cadman

She drew a quick breath as she mentioned the last name and her eyes seemed to burn into her cousin's but Fay merely responded quietly

Is he"

Harry Cadman! Fay actually had forgotten his very existence for more than a year How heartbroken she had danced herself when the big test came and he had frantically pulled wires to obtain an assignment at home hall and, unlocking it, paused upon the threshold

Her eyes strayed to the mantel, and with a little exclamation of surprise she drew nearer to it

A hand grenade, a "tin hat" and a gas mask! Then all at once she recalled what her aunt had said—that Captain Warren had brought Wilbur's things home She touched the helmet with tender reverence, and took up the gas mask, but the dark stains upon its case made her recoil, and the full horror and desolation of her loss swept over her

She returned to her own room to remove the traces of her emotion in the determination to take up her life again among those carelessly happy people below as soon as she could

As she came down the stairs a few minutes later a man standing in the hallway came quickly forward.

Oh there you are, Clara! I heard voices out on the lawn and was just about to—"

He paused as the girl advanced and held out her hand

"How do you do, Mr Clayton?" Am I so very like my aunt? I am complimented"

Miss Tudor!" The newcomer recovered from his surprise and shook hands cordially "When did you return?"

"Just this morning Do you know I feel like a dancer who suddenly finds herself out of step?" Fay smiled Silly, isn't it?"

"No I don't think it's silly," he responded "You've been living under such high pressure that this seems unreal as though you were looking on at some pleasant-mannered comedy on the stage"

"Yes that is it!" Fay exclaimed

"I want to talk to you" Clayton urged suddenly "Do you know I haven't yet got over the shock you gave me just now? I can never quite realize that you are actually grown up even when I read about the citation from General Petain"

"We heard about you, too, over there" Fay seated herself Our unit was at the very end of its resources when your train-loads of food came!"

"I am glad it was of service" Clayton paused

Well, upon my word!" Mrs Tudor's voice sounded from the doorway "When did you arrive, Ken? I'm glad you found Fay, but you've kept the whole crowd waiting for ages out on the lawn

"I'm sorry" Clayton rose

The next hour was less of a trial to Fay than she had feared for after the first flurry of greetings, the conversation returned to the current gossip and the girl was content to sit back and look on

That evening after her aunt and cousin had departed with Mr Clayton to a country club dance, Fay strolled into the library She extinguished the lights, seated herself by the open window and looked out over the sloping lawn to shadows which marked the clump of trees surrounding the tea-house

So it had been Captain Warren who brought Wilbur's things home He had come to see her in Paris on his first furlough after her brother was killed, and she recalled him as a tall self-contained man, with kindly gray eyes She wished that she had been at home to receive him

With a start her thoughts came abruptly back to the present and she leaned forward Had something moved there beneath that clump of trees?

It must be simply her nerves which peopled the shadows. With a shrug she sank back among the cushions and her mind reverted to the captain once more

Suddenly she was aware of a rustling in the shrubbery directly beside the window and without warning a face appeared within a few inches of her own!

It was a white drawn face with disheveled hair and eyes which stared wildly into hers for a moment while she held her breath in surprise and terror

The next instant it had disappeared and there remained only the night breeze rustling through the shrubbery

CHAPTER II

The next morning when Fay awakened she was ready to laugh at her own fancy of the night before Her overwrought imagination had played her strange tricks since her nerves had given way but never had her visions taken so startling a turn The pallid horror of it, and the staring almost maniacal, eyes were like nothing she had seen in a human being, it could only be the stuff of which nightmares are made

It was a white drawn face with disheveled hair.

Nervous breakdown is such an elastic term—

Laurel means dear that they will think you are really ill when all you need is a good rest Mrs. Tudor interrupted smoothly

Fay pressed her hand over her eyes I am a little tired I think I shall rest for a while if I am to meet these people later

Lying in a darkened room in the dim quiet of the room which she went to she—with Laurel

As she raised her hand mirror for a final glance her hair a key on the dressing table caught her eye and she put the mirror aside The key to Wilbur's room!

Taking up the key she made her way to the one closed door down the

WHERE IS THE PROOF OF THESE CHARGES?

It is often charged that American oil interests instigate and foster revolutionary movements in Mexico, and this charge is probably believed by a good many people. But these charges have never been proven and, so far as this paper has been able to learn, no conclusive evidence has ever been presented to show that these charges were true.

It appears that the big oil companies would benefit as much as anybody from an orderly and stable government in Mexico and that they stand liable to lose more than most others by lawlessness and unstable conditions in that country. That appears entirely reasonable.

It is true that a good many revolutionary plots against the Mexican government are hatched in the United States but they are hatched mostly by natives of Mexico or by irresponsible Americans. They are sometimes financed too on the American side of the Rio Grande but most of the money probably comes from Mexicans themselves who have brought it into this country for that purpose.

It does appear that our governmnet might exercise a little more vigilance and activity in suppressing such plots. Representative Connally of Texas made some criticism in congress of the government the other day in regard to its laxity in this matter.

Representative Connally also urged the early recognition of the Mexican government. The Obregon government has proven its capacity and stability, but the failure of the United States to recognize it encourages revolutionary plots against it. With this condition it is really remarkable that the Obregon government has been able to maintain order to the degree it has.

There appears to be a deadlock in the negotiations between the United States and Mexico looking to the recognition of the Obregon government. Apparently nothing is being done to break this deadlock. Surely diplomacy is not so helpless that we must continue a watchful waiting policy.

GOODS NEWS FROM LONDON.

Good news comes from London. It is to the effect that in the recent conference between the premiers of Great Britain and France at Boulogne an agreement was reached whereby David Lloyd George, the British premier, agreed that his government would give certain guarantees to France in regard to the reparations to be paid by Germany and in return Premier Poincare of France agreed that his government would make reductions in its military establishment.

The purpose of these agreements, as much as anything, was to influence opinion in America. The maintainance of a large and costly army by France has estranged sympathy in the United States and this is doubtless one of the reasons why the United States has declined to participate in the economic conference to be held at Genoa. But the demand for security is one thing that has been bred and shot into the French people. It is something that can hardly be understood in this country in its comparative isolation. Guarantees for her security and for the payment by Germany of reparations is the demand of the French people before they will permit their military forces to be materially weakened. No government can stand in France that fails to heed this demand. It is therefore good news that an understanding is about to be reached with Great Britain whereby such guarantees can be made. They will open up the way for a reduction in the French army and a re-enlistment of the sympathy of the American people.

THE INESCAPABLE FLAVOR.
(Dallas Jaurnal)

Following an investigation of the literature sold on local news stands, Mrs George C Francisco has reported to the Dallas Juvenile Protective Association that much of the questionable literature is suggestive rather than obscene and voiced belief that "the best way to combat the evil is to obtain the cooperation of the news dealers in boycotting this type of literature."

If this is the best way, it lacks much of being an easy way It is worth trying, however, as a means of bettering the average of the literature that is offered for sale to young and old alike. One bar to accomplishment along the line that Mrs. Francisco favors is the fact that the average news dealer isn't acquainted with all that he offers the public. He may know what is in a few of the periodicals, papers and magazinelets, but he doesn't know what is in all of them If he is willing to cooperate to the end proposed he will need the help of censors. The Juvenile Protective Association may be ready to furnish them.

But war on suggestiveness shouldn't stop with the news stand literature We encounter the flavor of it on all sides The eyes and the ears of the young are regaled with it If suggestiveness is to be routed the campaign guns must sweep the entire field This is not to say that concentration on one salient isn't commendable at the outset of operations. It is And that salient well may be the stuff that is offered the reading public with the approval of the postal authorities.

BEYOND

Keep looking ahead—beyond. The longer you look at the nearby troubles and annoyances of your life, the bigger and more impassable they become.

Unless you look beyond today, you begin to surrender all that you are and have.

It is possible for a human being to get tangled up in himself by thinking and brooding too much on his own immediate affairs.

By looking beyond we get the proper perspective on ourselves and others as well.

Greatness is rarely appreciated as it walks around each day. You have to let it get at a distance where you are able to see it in all its values.

The man who builds his home does so for his own family's comfort—and for those who will sometime take it over. Cities and nations are built for future generation, as well as for those who help build them.

To matter what work engages your time from day to day, you must keep looking beyond your special duties or else you cannot grow.

Plan in the beyond!

To have ideals and then to make them symbols of our extended vision, will help to nourish the heart of us when it becomes faint, and keep our footsteps straight ahead.

The world only looks good as we decide that it is good and try to put something good in it.

We really live only as we help others to live. And that always means that we enter into larger enterprises far beyond our own little spheres.

The possibility of world peace is for those beyond us who will not have known the terrible night of waiting and watching at the banks of rivers flowing with tears.

If you make your immediate life worth something, the one beyond will be worthy of your greatest desires for it.

JUST FOLKS
—By— Edgar A. Guest

WHEN FATHER BROKE HIS ARM

Pa never gets a story straight.
He's always mixed about the date
Or where it was, or what occurred
Or who related what he heard;
And every time he starts to tell
Some little story he knows well,
Ma says: "No, Pa, as I recall
That isn't how it was at all."

"Remember when I broke my arm,"
Says Pa, "when we were on the farm
And I went out that slippery morn
A few days after Bud was born
To get some wood"—and Ma says then:
"Oh, Pa, don't tell that tale again!
And anyhow, I know right well
Bud wasn't born the day you fell.

"'Twas months before he came," says Ma.
"'Twas after he was born," says Pa;
"I rather think I ought to know
Just when it was I suffered so."
"Maybe you ought," says Ma, "but still,
I saw you tumble down the hill,
And it was March with snow drifts high—
Bud wasn't born till next July."

"I'd walk him round the floor," says Pa.
"You're all mixed up again," says Ma.
"We'll ask Aunt Lizzie, she was there,
She'd come to help." Says Ma: "I swear
You're just as crazy as a loon,
Aunt Lizzie didn't come till June.
To argue on is most absurd,
Bud wasn't born when that occurred."

I wish I knew just what is what
Or whether I was born or not,
But I'll just have to sit and wait
Until Pa gets his story straight,
And I have never heard at all
Just how it was he chanced to fall,
For Pa and Ma can't yet agree
Which one came first—the fall or me.

PROSPECTIVE MOTHER'S DIET
By DR. R H. BISHOP.

Many prospective mothers stuff themselves with food in the belief they must eat enough for two

As a matter of fact, any special food requirements of the developing child before the end of the fourth month have been proved to be negligible.

Beginning with the fifth month, growth is comparatively rapid, but the actual amount of building material needed day by day is not large . Not even in the last weeks will the energy demands be increased more than 20 per cent, or one-fifth of the mother's usual supply.

Thus a woman of sedentary habits will need 2,400 to 2,800 calories a day

Increased requirements may best be met by liberal use of milk and eggs, supplemented by fruit and vegetables. Frequent small meals are often utilized to better advantage than a few large meals in the last few months

The day's diet should include:

A cereal of the whole grain, a pint to a quart of milk, fruit or fruit juices, a green vegetable, a meat substitute as eggs or cheese, (occasionally meat or fish) and butter, olive oil, bacon, peanut butter or oleomargerine to add to the fuel value.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

Be not wise in thine own eyes; fear the Lord, and depart from evil. —Proverbs 3 7.

History and experience are not without examples of a hard self-obliteration in most things, which is as cruel to thers as it is to itself. Rigid in observation of rule, such persons fail utterly in the cultivation of the spirit and temper which alone is valuable. — Knox Little.

It means—involved, mixed up, difficult to solve, hard to understand

It's pronounced — "in-tri-cutt" with accent on the first syllable—never on the second

It's used like this — "Raising money for the service men's bonus is an intricate problem for congress"

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK
By LEE PAPE

I was mad at my sister Gladdis for diffrent reasons and the door bell rang and I went and it was a man with a baskit full of spools of thred and safety pins and ordnerry dangerous pins and diffrent things, saying, is your mother in?

Wich jest then I had a good ideer, saying, No but my sister is, do you want to see her?

Yes, Im not partickler, sed the man, and I sed, All rite, come on in the parler and Ill call her.

O, Ill wait heer, sed the man, and I sed, No, come on in, she don't like to come to the frunt door, she likes to buy things in the parler, and the man sed, Well, if you insist. And he went in and sat down in the parler on the edge of a chair as if he was trying to do a grate balancing trick. Being a skinnie man with a red nose and one eye half shut. And I went up and Gladdis was in her room in her red dressing gown looking at her face in the mirrer as if she never saw it before, me saying, Hay Gladdis, theres some man down in the parler says he wunts to see you.

O, who is it, who can it be, dident he give you his name? sed Gladdis, and I sed, No, I dident ask him, and Gladdis sed, O it must be that nice Mr. Macknamara the bug collecter that I met at the dance, he sed he mite drop erround.

Maybe it is, he looks like a bug collecter, I sed. Wich he did, and Gladdis sed, O grayshiss and heer I am not dressed, go down and entertane him a second and tell him Ill be down in a minnit. And I went down agen and the man was still setting on the edge of the chair, me saying, She'll be rite down, and the man sed, Thank you very mutch but are you sure its all rite me being in heer? and I sed Sure I told her you was in heer. And pritty soon Gladdis came in looking all ixcited as if she had got dressed in a fearse hurry and she looked at the man with the baskit on his lap and he tried to sit even ferther on the edge of the chair and had to quick sit back agen on account of that being the ferthest edge there was and Gladdis sed Wat is this a joak? and the man sed No indeed I was brawt in here agenst my will I dident wunt to come in I was invited in espeshily would you care to buy eny pins or needles or thred?

No I would not good by sed Gladdis. And the man quick got up and went out me going out with him so Gladdis wouldent have a chance to do enything to me and then I ran up the street like the dickins so the man wouldent either.

SINKING.

In six months, wages in leading German industries have risen 50 to 85 per cent The difference narrows, between German production costs and exchange on the mark That gives the German manufacturer less cream to skim.

That remains to be seen.

WILBARGER RURAL SCHOOLS ARE ABOVE THE AVERAGE

VERNON, TEXAS, Feb 27.—Rural school in Wilbarger county are considerably above the average, according to J. S Rasco, state rural school inspector, who was here four days this week. Mr Rasco, accompanied by L. A Hollar, county superintendent, made a thorough examination of all country institutions of learning in Wilbarger, and expressed himself as well pleased.

In a statement here Mr Rasco declared that it is his opinion that rural school districts must devise means of increasing their funds if distress is to be avoided for the next year. State aid, he said, has been materially cut, and there will be only a limited appropriation next year.

"HOW MY GIRLS AVOIDED PITFALLS OF MOVIES"—BY MRS. TALMADGE

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—'Supose your daughters were just starting out now to make careers for themselves, would you want them to go into the movies?" I put this question to Mrs. Talmadge immediately after she arrived in New York from scandal-ridden Hollywood.

And the mother and chum of Norma, Constance and Natalie—three names made famous on the screen—replied:

"Yes. For my greatest ambition for my daughters has always been for their own happiness. I know Constance and Norma are happier in pictures than they would be idle or in any other type of work, just as Natalie is happiest in her home. I should not wish things to be any different with them."

Mrs. Talmadge is soft voiced, gentle and motherly.

Like Goldfish.

"Movie people," she said, "swim about in their big glass bowl with the eyes of the whole world upon them. And when anything happens to one fish, big or litle, it becomes common property.

"It is most unfair to denounce the whole motion picture world when only a small group is involved. Hollywood is a good-sized city, made up of many types of people. To attribute to all of them the same habits and failings is as foolish as to assume that all bankers are thieves because one teller absconds with the funds.

"Nothing is going to prevent girls from wanting to become screen stars as long as the profession offers such glittering hopes and chances for fortune as it does now.

"Hollywood is the acid test of a girl's character. It can be a Babylon or a Sahara, a land of opportunity or a place of despair—it all depends on the girl.

"The stars have their fine homes, but the little extras and beginners have stuffy little rooms and no place to go when the day's work at the studio is over, unless it be to a motion picture show. And they're often sick of pictures by night.

"The serious girls, with their minds on their work, will probably fall in with the right element and make the right sort of friends. But the pleasure loving, frivolous creatures who believe that life owes them a good time, are very apt to drift into the wrong sets.

Conditions Hard.

"Right now economic conditions are very pathetic. Many girls go out west with just enough money to get there, hoping to obtain work immediately—they've been told they are pretty and better than some of the stars and they believe it.

"A number of the studios are closed and thousands are out of work. Some of them don't know where their next dinner is coming from. And it isn't surprising that they grasp at any opportunities that seem to offer a way out.

"I don't take any particular credit for my girls' successful and spotless careers, but I am very thankful that I have been able to be with them during every step and to smooth out things for them as they went along, and to provide a good home and healthy pleasures for them while they were learning the game.

How They Started.

"Norma and Constance started in New York. I remember Norma and I discussed her career and I suggested pictures. She liked the idea and together we went to the old Vitagraph studio where she got her first job at $25 a week.

"I went with her every day and knew just how she was getting along. Constance just naturally drifted in after Norma did. She was funny and awkward at first. Natalie tried a few parts, but did not care for the work at all.

"When they would get all tired out, I used to make them stay in bed for a few days. I looked after their health and their diet. I kept them free from worry so they could have their minds free for their work.

"All girls need mothering. The unfortunate thing about pictures is that often a girl is obliged to be away from her mother just when she needs her most."

Norma is the wife of Joseph M. Schenck, motion picture producer. Constance off the screen is Mrs. John Pialoglou, wife a wealthy tobacco importer. Natalie is married to Buster Keaton, the film comedian.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 27.—The better than 10 centhog appeared in Fort Worth today after a year's absence. The highest prices of the year were paid not only for the hogs, but for pigs, steers and lambs. The top in hogs was 10.05 cents per pound.

ANOTHER DROP IN PRICE OF EGGS IN CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Cheap eggs for Lent were signalized today by a new drop in quotations. Today's prices showed a fall of a cent a dozen per day for the last ten days.

The wholesale quotation for first quality eggs here today was 24 cents as against 34 cents on the corresponding day a year ago, as well as for ten days back this season.

Mild weather and big receipts were the reason assigned for the decline in the egg market.

HOUSTON, Feb. 27. — Federal Judge J. C. He also declared that officers are open to indictment if they knowingly and wilfully search private premises without due process of law.

World's Oldest Cop Death on Mashers

By NEA Service.

BUTTE, MONT., Feb. 27.—Ninety-eight-year-old Sam Pretine swung his club and made a motion to give pursuit to a youngster who was cutting the corner on the park grass before he turned to answer the question.

"Being the oldest policeman in the world is a 'pipe,'" he said, twirling the mace.

"All you have to do is to shoo the kids off'n the pansy beds here in the park in the summer, and to see that none of them young fellers gets too fresh with the girls that parade the streets in these new short skirts."

Sam's been listed on the police roster here for so long that even officials themselves can't remember when he started.

Born in Jersey.

Sam was born in 1824 in the ancient fishing village of Barnegat, N. J. With him, being a policeman is an avocation. He started as a plain-clothesman in the government secret service at the time of the St. Louis whiskey ring before the civil war.

Sam, pounding the wall with his club to emphasize his remarks, says:

"In 1861 I was Lincoln't personal bodyguard on the way from Illinois to Washington for the inauguration.

Daring to have that statement questioned and have it pointed out that if all such claims were true, Lincoln must have had 9,000 bodyguards, Sam assumes an air of injured dignity.

Sprinter, Too.

"I was a champion sprinter in my time, too," he adds. "Lincoln once said to me: 'Well, Sam, you can run faster than I can, but I can split more rails than you.' But I don't suppose you believe that, either."

Sam says he went into the northwest first in 1858 to watch for poaching Canadian trappers. Now he has switched to watching for mashers.

"See those numbers on my badge?" He displayed it proudly. "Twenty-three! That don't mean anything special for me, for I'm going to live a long time yet. But it means 'git' for them young masher fellers."

A proposal that the municipal welfare council establish a "soup line" near the Wichita river, for the beenfit of needy and unemployed of the city, was presented to the council Monday morning by E. Van Deventer. The board took no action on the suggestion, several members expressing the belief that necessity for such action would soon be obviated by improving conditions.

The board elected Mrs. E. B. Gorsline Jr. permanent secretary; she has been holding the position temporarily for over a month.

Discussion of a number of cases and minor matters held the board's attention for a lengthy session.

QUEER THINGS MIGHT HAPPEN in THAT DISTANT WORLD of CLOAK and DAGGER

Secret service men, representatives of Salamanca, the bubbling little Central American republic, a beautiful girl an old negro servitor, and a jealus husband are all looking for The Wanted Man—and most of them want him for widely differing reasons.

Romance and adventure do not come to every man in the proportion experienced by the hero of Harris Dickson's great new serial, The Wanted Man. But the thrill is almost as keen when told in the way this story is told. Barbara Stark is half in love with him when she learns he is—or is supposed to be—Stuart Clayton, the son of her father's old neighbor and enemy, with whom he once fought a duel. In spite of feud and duel—or possibly because of them—it fascinated Barbara to sit in the woods beside wild Lake Marmion with a Clayton, playing at the world old game of fence and parry.

Yet when they talked together, she sensed a sinister undercurrent of something wrong. Even while sitting beside her on their log, concealed from both the lake and the road, she had noticed how fearful he seemed lest someone might discover him. He always came riding through the woods, avoiding the public highway. Plainly he was hiding. Those were the facts that had made a mystery of their meeting.

And now constables, with handcuffs, had come. And there was a charge of a false name. It might be romantic for a fairy book princess to hold her stolen trystings, incognito, with a prince, the son of her father's royal enemy. Their love would unite two warring kingdoms and all live happy ever after. But to meet some strolling varlet in the woods, some smooth talking fugitive from justice who sailed under the alias of another man? Barbara shuddered at such low intrigue.

This is indeed an absorbing story! The handsome, gallant stranger, who gave no name, riding like a modern knight out of the woods. Barbara Stark, who met him secretly, and who, in a playful mood, led him to think she was Adelaide Razilly, her friend, married to a jealous husband. Uncle Nat, a faithful darky who tried to keep out of trouble, but failed. Mr. Foxyjaw and Mr. Fatface—as Uncle Nat called them—thought to be secret service men, looking for the man from Salamanca. Florian Razilly, a guest at the Stark plantation, who has secret communication with the detectives.

The story starts next Sunday in The Times. You'll be impatient for each new installment of this serial, for there isn't a dull paragraph. It is seldom that you get adventure and humor so admiringly blended. You get both thrills and laughter from this fascinating, quick-moving romance.

MORSE INDICTED WITH THREE SONS AND SEVEN OTHERS

CHARGE CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD IN ONE INDICTMENT.

CONSPIRE TO COMMIT OFFENSE IN SECOND

Involves War-Time Transactions Of Morse and Associates.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Indictments against Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, his three sons, Benjamin, Harry and Ervin; Colin H. Livingstone of Washington, president of the Virginia Shipbuilding corporation, and seven others were returned today by the federal grand jury which has been investigating the war-time transactions of Morse and some of his associates with the shipping board.

Others named in the indictments as presented to the district of Columbia supreme court included: R. O. White of New York, former president of the United States Transport company; George M. Burdette of New York; W. W. Scott, Washington, attorney, L. A. Christie of Alexandria, Va.; Nehemiah Campbell of New York and Phillip Rhinehart of Baltimore, former government auditor at the Virginia Shipbuilding plant.

Two indictments were returned one charging conspiracy to defraud the government and other charging conspiracy to commit offense against the government.

The conspiracy as charged by the government accuses those named of making false statements as to the value of their plant and assets and thereby obtaining loans from the shipping board. They are also charged with having secured money for shipbuilding purposes and to have used the same for personal interests in the way of improving their plants. It is also alleged that large quantities of material for shipbuilding belonging to the emergency fleet corporation was secured and then sold and the money converted to the use of the alleged conspirators.

Those indicted either were or still are connected with the Groton Iron Works, Groton, Conn., the Virginia Shipbuilding corporation, Alexandria, Va., or the United States Transport company, Inc., which concerns are known as the Morse companies.

Morse in a statement issued through his attorneys after the indictments had been returned, declared the proceedings against him were the result of "animus" on the part of Attorney General Daugherty.

REPORT ON EXPENSE OF PRISON SYSTEM

Board Outlines Cost Involved for Maintenance During Seven Years.

By Associated Press

HUNTSVILLE, TEXAS, Feb. 27.—Of interest at this time, when the penitentiary system of Texas is in need of money for maintenance and support and efforts are being made by Governor Pat M. Neff to obtain the necessary funds without calling a special session of the legislature, is a statement of the board of prison commissioners, showing the amount of money expended in the support and maintenance of the system since 1915.

From 1915 to 1920, inclusive, a period of six years, $6,666,201.06 was expended for the maintenance and operating expenses of the prison system, at an average of $1,111,033.84 per year, according to J. A. Herring, chairman of the board of prison commissioners. In 1921 there was expended $899,348.53 for the same purpose, being $111,084.98 less than any of the previous years, Mr. Herring said.

The total sum disbursed for maintenance from 1915 to 1921, inclusive, was $7,665,598.60 and in the same period $3,161,583.25 was expended for lands, livestock, notes and interest on indebtedness incurred prior to 1915, making a total expenditure for all purposes of $10,827,132.85.

The Texas state penitentiary was established in June of 1849 under Governor Bell's administration. Early in that year, ten acres was bought by the state at Huntsville; a wooden building and corral erected as a nucleus to what in all probability is the largest penitentiary system in the United States, according to Mr. Herring.

Fayette county is given credit for the first commitment. In July, 1849, a white man was received for a term of three years for cattle theft. The same man was pardoned in September of 1850 and as far as the records show this pardon was the first ever issued to a convict in the state of Texas. Only three men were received during the first year.

On September 28, 1851, the first attempt to escape was made. This man was killed, which is also the first in the history of the penitentiary.

As the years went by, the population of the penitentiary began to increase. Up to 1870, 2,139 commitments were received. In that year the branch penitentiary at Rusk was opened. On July 2, 1898, the records show that 4,731 convicts were carried on the rolls, of which 1,411 were new men received during that year.

The year 1921 brought to the penitentiary the largest amount of newly received men since it was established, according to Mr. Herring, 1,601 men and women having been committed. The population of the penitentiary on December 28, 1921, was 3,162.

SENATOR CRITICAL OF NEW PRIVATE LOANS TO EUROPE

WOULD LIKE ASSURANCE THAT MONEY WILL GO INTO INDUSTRIES.

FOREIGN DEBT PROBLEM WORRYING THE LEADERS

Seen As Involving Question of Huge European Military Establishments.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.
(Copyright, 1922, by the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Doubtless the American newspapers are read pretty carefully by foreign ambassadors resident in Washington from the countries that want us to go to Genoa, and who also want to know how our newly appointed commission feels about the debts these foreign governments owe us. In the newspaper accounts of the speech Secretary Hoover delivered at Chicago this week these ambassadors ought to be able to find some light that is in direct and yet possible of some degree of interpretation as to the state of the American mind.

SULLIVAN

Mr. Hoover is a member of the new commission to handle these foreign debts. He is also one of the members of the cabinet who knows more about European conditions than most of the others and whose opinions, therefore, would be likely to have much weight on the point of whether we are to go to Genoa or not. Mr. Hoover in his recent speech did not mention Genoa and did not allude to the foreign debts, but he did allude to the economic practices of some of the governments concerned.

"In Great Britain and some other states," Mr. Hoover said, "reasonable hopes of economic stability have been attained. Yet all this progress is threatened by the steady degeneration of governmental finance in some of the states on the continent."

The armies being maintained at great expense by some of these countries were then metioned by Mr. Hoover. To illustrate the size of these armies, Mr. Hoover said that if the United States were following the same practice we would have an army of 1,500,000 men and reserves of 3,000,000. So long as these countries continue to spend their money on armies of such size, Mr. Hoover continued, "there is little hope of economic progress. The economic loss in the decrease of national finance is one of the great difficulties of Europe.

Against Big Armies.

For the foreign governments concerned, the point of this lies in Mr. Hoover's further statement that "we have a desire to help. But before our strength can be employed towards economic stability a foundation of political stability must first be obtained. Economic stability cannot be created in an atmosphere of alarms and threats of political action and its possibilities of war. Economic strength has not yet been built on armies."

Aside from this utterance of Mr. Hoover's, some senators have recently raised a point about these countries that owe us money. The senators question the business wisdom of American bankers making private loans of new money to European governments that already owe the United States government huge sums long overdue. If this new money went into productive purposes, if it were used to revive and stimulate industry the senators would find no objection; but if it is used by the governments that borrow it to pay for the upkeep of armies, and in other forms of expenditure economically unjustifiable, the senators think it is a bad practice.

It is quite possible that we shall reach a time when our government will want to look into new loans requested by our debtor governments from American bankers. The test of whether we regard these new loans as desirable to make or not will be determined by whether the money is to be used in productive industry, or in the maintenance of armies and other unproductive government expenditure on the part of nations whose budgets have already been too long unbalanced.

BECKY BROOMHILL WINNER OF HIGHEST AWARD AT TRIALS

Special to The Times.

BOWIE, TEXAS, Feb. 27.—Eugene M. Jr., the only Wichita Falls dog called back for the second series of the open all-ages stakes, failed to place in the money here today. The winners, as announced by the judges were Becky Broomhill, first, Comanche Rap, second, and Don Proctor, third.

This win for Becky Boomhill, the much touted $10,000 pointer, easily gives her the title for the entire season. She is handled by Chesley Harris of Alabama. Her work in the second series today was responsible for the decision of the judges as she was putclassed in the first series by several dogs.

BEVERLY HILLS AUTO RACE NEXT SUNDAY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27 — The 250-mile automobile race, started yesterday at the Beverly Hills speedway, but called off at the end of the 93rd lap when a light rain made the course dangerous, will be held next Sunday afternoon, according to officials of the Los Angeles Speadway association.

Official re-check of the figures today showed the race had been called at the end of the 93rd lap instead of the 94th, as had been announced previously. The revised figures also credited Tommy Milton, who led the field of 12 entries throughout the afternoon, with having negotiated the 93 laps in 1 hour, 2 minutes, 53.08 seconds for an average speed of 109.8 miles an hour.

The recheck also placed Harry Harts in second and Joe Thomas in third position.

There is a runner on second, and two strikes and three balls on the batter. On the pitch the runner on second starts to steal third. The batsman swings at the ball and misses it. The pitch is close and inside. The ball ticks the shirt of the batsman as it whizzes by. The catcher catches the ball and throws the runner out at third. There is one out at the time. Does that complete a double play and retire the side?

When a pitch at which the batter swings and misses comes into contact with the person of the batsman the ball becomes dead. In the case cited it was the third strike, retiring the batsman. However, when the ball ticked the shirt of the batter after he had swung and missed, the ball became dead. No bases can be run on such a play. Therefor the runner thrown out trying to steal third should be sent back to second. It was not a double play only the batsman was retired.

PLAN TO DISTRIBUTE THE MARKET REPORT

Effort Will Be Made to Keep Farmer Advised of Price Conditions.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Feb. 27.—Co-operation between chambers of commerce in Texas towns and cities and the state department of markets and warehouse in the spreading of market news to farmers of the state by wireless telephone, or radiophone, is expected by officials of the department here.

With the announcement that plans to install agricultural market news for Texas daily by radiophone had been completed at a conference between officials of the state department of agriculture, markets and warehouse department, University of Texas and federal bureau of crop estimates and markets, plans for the co-operation of the chambers of commerce were revealed. Negotiations are said to be under way with the Texas chamber of commrce at Dallas to enlist the aid of members of that organization.

Under the proposal of the marketing officials, the crop and market reports would be sent by radiophone to the different chambers of commerce, which would in turn telephone them to the farmers or have the reports available for the farmers upon call. Thus, it is expected, the service could be made far-reaching and farmers not prepared to receive the reports direct could obtain them with practically no delay.

The plan, as proposed at the conference, is to obtain daily market reports from the central markets of the country through the Kansas City office of the United States bureau of markets and crop estimates and from other sections of the country through other agencies. The data will be collected by the department of agriculture, compiled by the state markets and warehouse department and disseminated by the radio station at the University of Texas.

Texas has many radio clubs and literally hundreds of radio receiving stations equipped to receive radiophone messages, it was stated.

The wireless has already been in use in Texas in a semi-public way in the exchange of information by the police of several towns and cities. Amateur operators have co-operated with the police in this work. That many wireless stations in the state are ready to receive the radiophone reports is thought to be shown by reports of their listening to concerts and speeches from several cities, especially Dallas.

Every day in the last five years an average of 2,173 persons joined the various churches of America.

EGYPTIANS ADOPT TACTICS EMPLOYED BY INDIA PEOPLE

ALEXANDRIA, EGYPT, Feb. 27.—In declaring a boycott against all goods of English manufacture, the Egyptians have adopted the tactics of the nationalists of India. They have heard that the Indians have been successful in their attempt to boycott British goods and are endeavoring to use the same means to bring the British government to terms.

As yet the extent of the boycott is not clear. However, many Egyptian merchants are now refusing to buy English goods and salesmen calling on Egyptian customers are promptly told that he wishes no quotations on such merchandise.

But the great majority of importers and exporters are foreigners who desire to continue to buy and sell in the best markets.

If the Egyptians are able to hold together on the boycott program and force the importers to no longer deal in English cotton piece goods, iron and steel products, the result may be serious for English factories in Lancashire and Birmingham.

British banks are included in the boycott. It is stated that considerable sums of money have been withdrawn from English banks in Egypt and placed in other foreign banks.

School boys have boycotted the schools and the native bar association voted to suspend all work.

It has been proposed also to restrict the cultivation of Egyptian cotton, which would be of interest to the cotton growers of the United States. It has even been suggested that the Egyptians should refuse to export onions to England which now takes 80 per cent of the Egyptian onion crop.

Certain members of the Effendi class, Egyptians of leisure, have announced that they would cease to drink English whiskey and refuse to wear short cropped mustaches as the English do. Various other boycotting plans have been proposed.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The cotton market opened steady, today at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points. The Liverpool cables were no better than due and there was some scattered realizing but after a few moments of hesitation the market showed increasing activity and strength, owing to continued favorable news from the goods trade, strength of sterling exchange, firmness in the stock market, and a more optimistic view of European politics. London cables say that the plan for a 10-year European truce is expected to promote trade revival and Liverpool reported an improved demand from the continent. May contracts here sold up to 18.46, with the general list showing net advances of about 15 to 26 points right after the call on covering and Wall street and Liverpool buying.

The market met increased realizing on the early advance and fluctuations were irregular later. Offerings were absorbed on reaction, of 10 or 12 points, however, and the market held generally steady around midday on reports of continued good spot demand in the south. March sold off from 18.76 to 18.55 on rumors that large notices would be issued tomorrow but later rallied to 18.64 with prices ruling about 5 to 14 points net higher early in the noon hour.

There was another spurt of realising during the early afternoon promoted by the reaction in grain and May contracts sold off to 18.16 or about 30 points from the early high price and four points net lower. Offerings then became small and the market was quiet at rallies of 7 or 8 points during the middle of the afternoon.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27. — A much better feeling regarding international politics helped the cotton market to higher levels today and in the first half hour of trading prices rose 20 to 29 points to 17.32 for March and 16.33 for October. Reports that cotton was up and growing in extreme south Texas and that much cotton had been planted in that section were offset by claims of delayed preparations in north Texas and in the eastern half of the belt. Some portions of east Texas report that seed was poor in quality.

At the highest of the morning March traded at 17.34 with the list 22 to 29 points up. At this level much realizing came from the long side and new selling for short account followed the official predictions of moisture for Oklahoma and west Texas. The market commenced to fall off and toward noon stood 5 points higher to 5 points lower than the close of last week March fell off to 17.17 and October to 16.10.

Prices were further depressed in the afternoon by telegrams from western Texas telling of rainfall. In the trading up to 1:30 o'clock active positions were sent to levels 7 to 15 points net lower, March falling to 17.05 and October to 16.00.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—New high price records for the season were attained today in the wheat market. May delivery at the opening jumped to within half a cent of $1.50 a bushel, the goal to which bulls some time ago had directed their efforts. A fresh advance in quotations at Liverpool was the principal incentive for today's upturn here. Free selling to realize profits ensued. The opening, which ranged from ½c to 2½c higher, with May $1.48 to $1.49½ and July $1.26½ to $1.27, was followed by a moderate setback from initial top figures.

Later May touched 1.49¾, but the gains failed to hold in the face of heavy profit taking and of snow in the southwest giving further relief from the drought. The close was unsettled, 1c net lower to ½c advance, with May 1.47 to 1.47¼ and July 1.25 to 1.25¼.

Corn and oats ascended with wheat to the highest price yet this season. After opening unchanged to ½c up, May 69 to 69½c, corn scored moderate gains.

Slowness of export demand led to setbacks in price later. The close was weak, ½c to 1c net lower, with May 67¾ to 67⅞c.

Oats started ¾c to 1@1¼c higher May 43½ to 44c, and later went further upgrade.

Provisions were lifted by the advance of grain and hogs.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. — Last week's active and broad upward movement of popular issues made further substantial progress at the opening of today's stock market. Rails motors and oils continued to feature the rise, several of the secondary transportations, as well as Studebaker and Sinclair making new high records for the year. American Locomotive, General Electric, American Woolen and Market Street Railway prior preferred, rose 1 to almost 2 points. Foreign exchanges were buoyant in the preliminary quotations, reflecting latest developments in Anglo-French relations.

Buying converged on the dopper issues and they advanced 1 to 1½ points. Their strength, however, seemingly utilized to affect distribution in some quarters. Baldwin, American Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum, California Petroleum, Coca Cola and Davison Chemical were depressed 1 to 1½ below Saturday's closing, while Studebaker and other favorites ruled well under their high prices of the forenoon. Buying of the gas shares, Consolidated rising four points, imparted a better tone to later dealings.

The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 1,600,000 shares.
